City Attorney Summary:

This project consists of the rezoning of a site located at the southwest corner of Bloomfield Ave. and South St., which currently allows for commercial uses only. The rezoning of the site to ADP-20 will allow for continued commercial uses, but will now also allow for low-/medium-density residential uses. This rezoning is in response to AB 2011. Without any rezoning, AB 2011 mandates that the City approve any eligible multi-family housing development (with some component of affordable housing) within any commercially-zoned property of less than twenty (20) acres along a major arterial street with densities ranging from twenty (20) to eighty (80) dwelling units per acre, with no parking requirements, and without any discretionary public hearings. By rezoning the site and establishing ADP-20, the City would be able to retain local control for any commercial or residential development, while also protecting surrounding uses by establishing development standards for density, building height, landscaping, parking requirements, and privacy screening.
